

THURSDAY, JUNE 5

- 1:00 pm Registration opens
 1:30 pm -5:30 pm Mini-Conference / Ruth Martin / Salons 6-7
On Thursday, GHEA offers a 4-hour mini-conference for those parents considering homeschooling as an educational option, first-time homeschool parents, and for those who have already started, but are in need of some encouragement. This session will cover the basics of home education, the legal aspects (especially for those homeschooling in Georgia), the nitty-gritty of what happens during the typical homeschool day, suggestions for organization and planning, mastering the art of teaching, and choosing curriculum. These topics are woven together and are not specific sessions, so we encourage you to try to attend the entire mini-conference. The sessions are intended to encourage and instruct parents of students of all ages. There will be a Q & A time at the end of the mini-conference. Ruth Martin is a 22-year veteran homeschool mom who is also an educational consultant in private practice, specializing in learning disabilities and secondary education.
